DETAILED ACTION

Claims 6, 7 and 9-13 have been canceled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1, 4, 5 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Calef.

With respect to parent claim 1, Calef shows (Figs. 1-5) a hand tool comprising:

A frame (shank B) having a distal portion (unnumbered, at the lower end of Figs. 1-4) and a proximal portion (unnumbered, at the upper end of Figs. 1-4) generally defining a first axis (unnumbered) therebetween, the proximal portion having at least one proximal end (unnumbered, upper end of shank B);

(a) a working element (A) operably coupled (by rivets, unnumbered) to a distal end of the distal portion, the working element (A) having a working portion (bowl of the spoon) that is oriented along a first direction (unnumbered) with respect to the frame (B);

(b) a handle means (I) being defined between a first end (unnumbered) and an opposed second end (unnumbered) thereof, the first end (unnumbered) being anchored (via H) to and disposed adjacent to the frame (shank B), the handle means (I) being pivotally coupled to the frame (B) at a portion (unnumbered) thereof intermediate the proximal end (lower end of shank B) and the distal end (upper end of shank B); the handle means (I) having a pivot axis (about line x-x in Fig. 4) substantially perpendicular to the first axis (unnumbered); such that the second end

Art Unit: 3641

(unnumbered) of the handle means (I) operably pivots between a first position (Figs. 1-5) spaced from the first axis (unnumbered) and a second position (not shown but necessarily present) substantially in alignment with the first axis (unnumbered); and

(c) a brace means (D, E) operably coupled to the proximal end (upper end of shank B) of the frame (B), the brace means (D, E) being configured to operably brace against an upper side of a user's forearm while the user operably grasps the handle means (I).

As to claim 4, the brace means (D, E) is fabricated from a resilient material ("strap, spring or other device, E"; col. 1, line 43).

Regarding claim 5, the working element (A) is removably secured to the frame (shank B) by rivets (unnumbered).

With regard to claim 8, the handle means (I, in Figs. 3 and 4) of Calef is "removably securable to the frame" (B) as required in the claim. For example, it is capable of being placed on and removed from the shank (B) prior to securing the detachable arm-piece (D, E) on the shank (B), as shown in the embodiment of Figs. 3 and 4.

Allowable Subject Matter

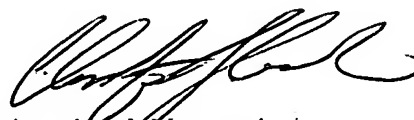

Claims 2 and 3 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
